

TEXT. SCENE 1

FATHER: It's called "humor."

ANDREW: "Humor"?

FATHER: Yes. People tell jokes to make each other laugh.

ANDREW: And this laughter gives pleasure, sir?

FATHER: Yes.

ANDREW: Sir, could you teach one to tell a joke?

FATHER: Well, I-let's see. Um- Two drunks walk into a bar.

ANDREW: Wouldn't two drunks walk out of a bar, sir?

You walk into a bar to drink, and you come out drunk.

FATHER: Let's try something simpler, Andrew. Um- - Knock-knock.

ANDREW : "Knock-knock"?

FATHER: No, knock-knock, someone's at the door.

ANDREW: Shall one get it, sir?

FATHER: - No, no. No. Y-You say, "who's there," Andrew.

ANDREW: - Who's there, Andrew?

FATHER: No, just "Who's there?"

ANDREW: One does not know, sir.

FATHER: Let's start with something a little simpler, Andrew. Why did the chicken cross the road?

ANDREW: One does not know, sir. Possibly a predator was behind the chicken. Or, possibly, there was a female chicken on the other side of the road , if it's a male chicken. Or possibly a food source or, depending on the season, it might be migrating. One hopes there's no traffic.

FATHER: To get to the other side.

ANDREW: "To get to the other side." Ohhh. Why is that funny?

.....

(IN THE GARDEN, THE FAMILY TOGETHER)

FATHER: So, what do you kids have planned for the day?

DAUGHTER - Probably stick with Andrew.

FATHER: - What about you, Miss?

DAUGHTER 2: I'm gonna go play at my friend Natalie's house.

ANDREW: May one, sir? Is now a good time?

MOTHER: What? A good time for what?

ANDREW: - Last night, Sir taught one..

FATHER: No, no, no. Don-Don't blame me, Andrew. Just go ahead.

ANDREW: Thank you, sir.

ANDREW:

- Two cannibals were eating a clown. One turns to the other and says, "Does this taste funny to you?"

- How do you make a hanky dance? Put a little boogie in it.

- What is a brunette between two blondes? Translator.

- Do you know why blind people don't like to skydive? It scares their dogs.

- A man with dementia is driving on the freeway. His wife calls on the mobile phone and says, "Sweetheart, I heard there's someone driving the wrong way on the freeway. " He says, "One? There's hundreds!"

- What's silent, smells like worms? Bird farts.

- It must have been an engineer who designed the human body. - Who else would put a waste processing plant next to a recreation area?

- A woman goes into a doctor's office. The doctor says, " You mind if I numb your breasts?"

"Not at all." "Num-num-num-num-num." One did it , sir.

FATHER: Andrew, it was fine, but we might want to talk about... appropriateness and, um- and timing.

ANDREW: It's 10:15, sir.